Tigers Earn 18th Straight NCAA Appearance

Clemson finished the 2004 season with a 39-26 overall record, earning its 18th straight NCAA Tournament appearance. It was also the 19th consecutive season the Tigers won at least 39 games.

Clemson's NCAA Tournament History

The 2004 season marked Clemson's 30th trip to an NCAA Regional dating back to the 1947 season. Clemson has been to the NCAA Tournament every year since 1987, making College World Series trips in 1991, 1995, 1996, 2000, and 2002. Clemson's streak of 18 consecutive regionals is the third-longest active streak in the nation behind Miami (FL) (32) and Florida State (28). Clemson's streak is also tied for the fourth-longest in college baseball history.

Overall, Clemson has been to a regional in 30 seasons (including 2004), sixth-best all-time. Clemson's all-time record in NCAA play is 84-64, a .568 winning percentage.

Clemson is 39-24 (.619) under Head Coach Jack Leggett in NCAA Tournament play, including a 24-5 record in home NCAA Tournament games. Leggett has taken Clemson to a regional all 11 years he has been Clemson's head coach, and the Tigers have advanced to the College World Series four times. Leggett has also taken Clemson to the Super Regional four of the six years that format has been in existence.

therefore only five losses came to teams not in the NCAA Tournament.

Tigers Fall One Inning Short of Regional Title

Clemson went 3-2 in the Athens (GA) Regional from June 4-6 at Foley Field, falling one game short of advancing to Super Regional play. Clemson's five games were decided by a total of 10 runs, including the last three games being decided by one run apiece. In the regional, Clemson hit .294 with 13 doubles, a triple, eight homers, and 34 runs scored in the five games. Russell Triplett led the team with a .375 batting average. The pitching staff had a 6.40 ERA and 50 strikeouts against only 13 walks in 45.0 innings pitched. Tony Sipp struck out 10 and did not walk a batter in 7.1 innings pitched.

In the Tigers' opening game, Clemson scored six runs in the second inning on its way to a 10-6 win over Birmingham-Southern. Sipp had three hits, including a double to lead the 12-hit attack. Lou Santangelo added two doubles and three RBIs, while Travis Storrer had a double, homer, and three RBIs. Brad McCann hit a home run in his only official at-bat as well. Lefthander Wes Letson, who entered the regional with 12 wins, allowed 10 runs on nine hits and suffered the loss. Steven Jackson pitched 2.2 innings in relief with five strikeouts to pick up the victory. Josh Cribb pitched the final 4.0 innings, allowing one hit, no runs, and no walks while striking out five to earn the save.

The Tigers faced off against host Georgia in the winners' bracket the next day. The Bulldogs came away with a 6-3 win thanks to two lefthanders, Paul Lubrano and Will Startup. The two allowed just three runs, no walks, and eight hits. Tyler Lumsden struck out seven in 4.0 innings pitched, but suffered the loss. Kris Harvey was 3-for-4 to lead the Tigers, while Andy D'Alessio hit a two-run homer.

Clemson stayed alive with a 5-4 victory over Birmingham-Southern right after losing to Georgia. Storrer's RBI single in the top of the ninth inning proved to be the difference, as Patrick Hogan picked up the win in relief. Clemson hit six doubles, including two each by Sipp and Garrick Evans, to tie a school NCAA Tournament record. Storrer smacked another home run and had three RBIs, while Evans was 3-for-4 with three runs scored from the #9 spot in the batting order.

The following day, it appeared as if Georgia would coast to a championship-clinching win over the Tigers, as the Bulldogs led 9-2 after the top of the fifth inning. But Clemson clawed its way back to within 9-6 thanks to Storrer's three-run homer. Then in the seventh inning, Santangelo hit a grand slam at least 460 feet to right-center to give Clemson a 10-9 lead, which ended up being the final score. The seven-run comeback tied for the largest deficit overcome to gain victory by a Clemson team in NCAA Tournament history. Despite allowing five runs in the fifth inning, Cribb shut down the Bulldog offense the rest of the way and earned the win. Russell Triplett added a homer as well, while Harvey's 19-game hitting streak came to an end.

In the championship game, Clemson held a 6-4 lead entering the ninth inning, but solo homers by Bobby Felmy and Jason Jacobs tied the score, and Clint Sammons' solo homer in the 10th gave Georgia a 7-6 victory, ending the Tigers' season. Sipp gave Clemson a 4-0 lead with a bases-clearing triple in the second inning. A two-run single by Justin Holmes and solo homers by Jacobs and Josh Smith tied the score. Santangelo's two-run homer just inside the right-field foul pole gave Clemson a 6-4 lead. Then when it appeared Georgia would answer in the sixth inning, Sipp shut the door. With the bases loaded and no outs, he came in the game and struck out the side. Clemson put runners on second and third with one out in the 10th, but Startup struck out Santangelo and John Ingram to end the game.

Four Tigers Make All-Regional Team

Josh Cribb (P), Lou Santangelo (DH), Tony Sipp (OF), and Travis Storrer (OF) were all named to the Athens (GA) Regional All-Tournament team. Clemson lost 7-6 in 10 innings Sunday night at #10 Georgia and was eliminated from the NCAA Tournament. The Tigers were 3-2 in the regional.

Cribb pitched 10.0 innings in two relief appearances. He allowed just seven hits and two walks while striking out 10. Against Birmingham-Southern in the first game of the regional, Cribb pitched 4.0 scoreless innings of one-hit, no-walk ball while striking out five to earn the save in the Tigers' 10-6 win. Then at Georgia, he helped the Tigers stay alive with 6.0 innings pitched of quality relief. He struck out five and pitched masterful in the final four innings. In those final four frames, he did not give up a run and allowed the Tiger offense to comeback from a 9-2 deficit to claim a 10-9 thrilling victory.

Santangelo was 7-for-21 (.333) with three doubles, two homers, and nine RBIs in five games. The first homer was a grand slam at Georgia in the first game of the doubleheader on Sunday that gave Clemson a 10-9 lead. Clemson held on to win by that same score thanks to his opposite-field blast that traveled at least 460 feet. The other homer was a two-run shot that gave the Tigers a 6-4 lead in the fifth inning of the final game of the Athens Regional.

Sipp was 8-for-22 (.364) with six runs scored, three doubles, a triple, and six RBIs in five games. He also pitched 7.1 innings over two relief appearances and did not allow a walk while striking out 10. In the final game of the regional, he came in the game with the bases loaded and no outs, and struck out the next three Georgia batters to keep the score tied 4-4.

Storrer was 7-for-23 (.304) with six runs scored, two doubles, three homers, and 10 RBIs in five games. He entered the regional with just four homers on the season and had not hit one since March. His home run in Clemson's seven-run comeback was one of many big moments for Storrer.

Comeback for the Ages

Clemson trailed 9-2 entering the bottom of the fifth inning at #10 Georgia in the Athens Regional on June 6. The Bulldogs had just scored five runs in the top of the fifth inning, capped by Josh Smith's three-run homer. But the Tigers refused to let their season come to an end.

Travis Storrer lined a three-run homer in the bottom of the fifth to cut the Bulldog lead to 9-5. Then in the sixth inning, Russell Triplett hit a solo home run off the left-field foul pole. After Tony Sipp led off the seventh with a walk, Storrer walked, and

2004 Clemson Baseball Notes

Brad McCann singled to load the bases, Lou Santangelo stepped to the plate. He crushed a Matthew Boggs' pitch deep over the fence in right-center for a grand slam to give Clemson a 10-9 lead. It was Santangelo's second grand slam of the year, as his other also was hit against Georgia.

Santangelo's bomb was hit at least 460 feet and was one of the most dramatic home runs in Tiger history. Meanwhile, Josh Cribb shut down the Bulldog bats over the last four innings. He allowed just one hit and one walk while striking out four during the final four frames to preserve the win.

The seven-run comeback tied the Clemson record for largest deficit overcome to gain victory in an NCAA Tournament game. In the NCAA Tournament on June 9, 1958 at Gastonia, NC, Clemson trailed Florida 10-3 entering the bottom of the fifth inning. The Tigers scored 12 runs in the final five innings, including one in the ninth, to defeat the Gators 15-14. Clemson has played 148 NCAA Tournament games in its history.

ACC Tournament Recap

Clemson went 2-2 in the 2004 ACC Tournament held at Salem, VA. Clemson defeated North Carolina 7-6, but fell to Georgia Tech 11-7 in 13 innings a day later. After beating N.C. State 12-1 on May 28, Clemson fell to North Carolina 65 later that evening. All four games were against teams selected to play in the NCAA Tournament. Both losses were heartbreaking defeats in the final inning. The Tigers hit .327 with 17 doubles in the four games and did an excellent job getting ahead early. In the four games, Clemson scored at least two runs in every first inning and totaled 15 of its 31 runs of the tourney in the first inning.

Travis Storrer was 10-for-20 with seven runs scored and three doubles, Brad McCann was 9-for-18 with six runs scored, three doubles, two homers, and six RBIs, and Tony Sipp was 8-for-17 with six runs scored, four doubles, a triple, and five walks. Sipp also tied the Tiger ACC Tourney record with the four doubles and struck out six in 3.2 innings pitched in relief. Kris Harvey (.353), Tyler Colvin (.333), Russell Triplett (.316), and Lou Santangelo (.316) also had productive tourneys. Harvey also extended his hitting streak to 16 games, while D'Alessio's streak ended at 13 and Triplett's ended at 11.

McCann, Storrer All-ACC Tournament Team

Third baseman Brad McCann and second baseman Travis Storrer were named to the 2004 All-ACC Tournament team at their respective positions. McCann was 9-for-18 (.500) with six runs scored, three doubles, two homers, six RBIs, and a .591 on-base percentage in four games. Storrer was 10-for-20 (.500) with seven runs scored, three doubles, and four RBIs in four games. The #4-seeded Tigers went 2-2 in the tournament held at Salem, VA, finishing in fourth place.

Tigers Set ACC Tourney Record for Doubles

Clemson hit eight doubles against N.C. State on May 28 to set an ACC Tournament record for two-baggers in a single tourney game. Russell Triplett and Tony Sipp each had two doubles in the game. The previous Clemson ACC Tourney record was six, also set against N.C. State in 1999. The Tigers broke the record held by N.C. State, who ironically hit seven doubles against Clemson in a 1987 ACC Tournament game.

Sipp also tied two school ACC Tourney records in Salem, VA. He hit four doubles in four games, tying five other Tigers for the tourney record. Sipp also walked four times against #5 Georgia Tech on May 27, tying Joe Taylor for the Tiger record. Taylor walked four times against the Yellow Jackets a 1992 ACC Tournament game. Lou Santangelo also tied a school tourney record with seven at-bats against #5 Georgia Tech. Although he did not have a hit, he crushed two balls to right field that the wind kept in the park, and he ended the game with a deep fly ball to centerfield that was caught up against the wall by Brandon Boggs.

Clemson #14 in Final RPI

The only rating system the NCAA uses to determine selections and seedings is the RPI, or the Ratings Percentage Index. Although the NCAA does not release its official RPI until after the season, Boyd Nation has come up with an RPI index that is all but the same as the official RPI. He uses numbers from previous seasons to verify his formulas.

In the final (June 28) release (listed at BoydWorld.com), his RPI index had Clemson #14. The Tigers played one of the toughest schedules in the nation during the 2004 season. Clemson can thank a tough non-conference schedule for its high RPI ranking. Of the Tigers' 65 games, 44 were against teams ranked in the top 46 of the RPI. Clemson was 21-23 in those 44 games. The RPI only counts games against Division I teams and is for games through June 27.

Tigers Held Their Own Against SEC's Best

After starting 1-4 in its first five games against SEC foes in 2004, Clemson won five of its last seven games against the SEC to end the season with a 6-6 record. Clemson lost its first two games against rival and #5 South Carolina and then lost two of three games against #7 Auburn. But the Tigers rebounded with four convincing wins in a row, including two each over Georgia and the #6 Gamecocks by a combined score of 47-15. The Tigers then went 1-2 at #10 Georgia in the Athens Regional in June. All three teams were ranked in the top 25 in 2004, while South Carolina was a top-10 team much of 2004.

In the 12 games against the three SEC opponents, Clemson hit .312 at the plate, while holding the opponents to a .271 batting average. The Tigers, who outscored their SEC opponents 99-73, also hit 21 home runs, 25 doubles, and four triples, all the while averaging 8.3 runs per game.

Brad McCann was 23-for-51 (.451) with four doubles, two homers, and 17 RBIs, while Garrick Evans was 13-for-29 (.48) with four doubles, a homer, 12 runs scored, and eight RBIs in 10 games. Herman Demmink (.390), and Russell Triplett (.370) also had had productive games. Triplett and Travis Storrer added three homers apiece, while Lou Santangelo hit five homers and drove in 16 runs in 12 games.

Head Coach Jack Leggett has experienced success against the SEC in the past. He regularly schedules multiple series against Southeastern Conference foes, including four annual games against Palmetto State rival South Carolina and two against border-rival Georgia. He is 63-36 (.636) against the SEC in his 11 seasons at Clemson, including a 22-17 record against South Carolina and 16-9 mark versus Georgia. Leggett also has at least a .500 record against every SEC team he has faced while at Clemson.

Tigers Tough to Beat at Home Under Leggett

In 11 seasons, Head Coach Jack Leggett has a 512-220 overall record at Clemson, including a 202-106 mark against ACC teams. He has been especially tough in home ACC series, where he has a 104-26 (.800) record. The ACC team with the most success has been Florida State, who has won seven games in 18 tries at Doug Kingsmore Stadium.

Even when an opposing ACC team is victorious at Clemson, it usually means that team only won one of three games. In 44 ACC home series under Leggett, Clemson has lost only three series...losing two of three to N.C. State in 1996, getting swept by Florida State in 2002, and losing two of three to the Seminoles in 2004. Georgia Tech also split a pair of games in a rain-shortened series in 1997.

Four Tigers Named to All-ACC Teams

Kris Harvey was named to the First-Team All-ACC squad and three other Tigers were named to the second-team, announced by the conference prior to the ACC Tournament. Harvey received first-team honors as an At Large selection. The Second-Team All-ACC Tigers include Patrick Hogan (RP), Brad McCann (3B), and Lou Santangelo (C). The 2004 season marked the second year in a row McCann was named to the second team.

Record Nine Tigers Picked in Draft

Nine Tigers, highlighted by lefthander Tyler Lumsden's selection in the supplemental round between the first and second rounds, were taken in the Major League Draft from June 7-8, 2004. The nine selections sets a school record for most Tigers drafted in one year. The previous mark was eight, as both the 1996 and 2002 teams had eight players drafted.

Collin Mahoney (RHP/C), Lou Santangelo (C), Brad McCann (3B), Steven Jackson (RHP), and Patrick Hogan (RHP) were also selected within the first 14 rounds. Garrick Evans (OF), Zane Green (OF), and Tony Sipp (OF/LHP) were taken Tuesday in the second day of the draft. All of the players drafted, except Jackson, Hogan, and Green, are juniors and have the option of returning for their senior seasons in 2005. Russell Triplett also signed a free agent contract with the Mets after the season.

Clemson tied for the third-most selections by a college team. Georgia Tech and Stanford had the most with 10 each, while Texas and UCLA joined the Tigers with nine picks apiece. South Carolina had eight, while East Carolina, Lamar, Long Beach State, Oklahoma, Texas Tech, and Vanderbilt all had seven apiece.

With the nine selections, Jack Leggett has had a total of 47 players drafted in his 11 seasons as head coach at Clemson. Eight of those 47 players were drafted twice, meaning a Tiger has been drafted 55 times in his tenure. Thirteen more Tigers have signed free-agent contracts as well.

Two-Way Tigers

In past years, Clemson has not had many players both pitch and play in the field. But in 2004, three Tigers saw action in both roles. Lefthander Tony Sipp started 51 games in the outfield and pitched in 22 games on the mound. Righthander Kris Harvey started a team-tying-high 14 games on the mound (winning six games), while starting four at first base, two in left field, 24 in right field, and 21 as the DH. And righthander Collin Mahoney, who never pitched in college before this year, showed flashes of dominance on the mound in 2004. He struck out 26 in just 19.0 innings pitched. His fastball was clocked in the high 90s and has even reached 100 on the radar gun. He was also 4-for-16 (.250) with three RBIs at the plate in 2004.

Another Tiger was a different kind of two-way player. Outfielder and true freshman C.J. Gaddis is also listed as a cornerback on the Tiger football team. Gaddis red-shirted in the fall of 2003, as the Clemson football coaching staff is excited about the abilities he brings to the gridiron. He also stole three bases in four attempts in 2004.

Triplett, Green, Storrer Hit Walkoff Singles

Against N.C. State on April 23, Russell Triplett lined a single down the left-field line in the ninth inning to give the Tigers a 2-1 win. In the next game, Zane Green, who was hitless in his last 23 at-bats, hit a ball deep to the gap for a single to give the Tigers a 4-3 win over the same Wolfpack team in walkoff fashion. Ironically, the game before the N.C. State series on April 21, Clemson won the game in the bottom of the ninth, but not on a walkoff hit. An error by the Western Carolina pitcher allowed two runs to score to give Clemson an 8-7 victory. Therefore, the Tigers won games in the bottom of the ninth three times in the span of three games.

It was the second time in as many years that Clemson hit walkoff hits to win back-to-back games, as Michael Johnson and Brad McCann hit walkoff homers in consecutive games (against East Tennessee State and Georgia Tech) in 2003.

Then on May 5 against Charleston Southern, Clemson scored three runs in the ninth inning, capped by Travis Storrer's walkoff, RBI single, to defeat the Buccaneers 3-2. Triplett pulled off the feat for the third time in his career when he grounded a single through the left side to plate Kris Harvey in the ninth inning to beat #20 North Carolina in the ACC Tournament on May 26. Clemson has had a walkoff hit to win a game 27 times under Head Coach Jack Leggett in 11 seasons.

Leggett Reached 500-Win Mark at Clemson

Head Coach Jack Leggett won his 500th game as Clemson's head coach on April 25, 2004 when the Tigers defeated N.C. State 9-6. He has a 512-220 (.699) record at Clemson in 11 seasons. The legendary Bill Wilhelm has the most wins of any Tiger coach with 1,161 in 36 seasons (1958-93) at Clemson. Leggett's 512 wins are second-most in school history. No other Clemson coach has more than 70 wins while in Tigertown. Through Leggett's first 11 seasons at Clemson, he has had 512 wins. Only five other programs have had more victories over that span from 1994-04. Leggett also has an 889-510 (.635) record in 25 years as a collegiate head coach.

Tigers Unloaded

Clemson hit .375 (27-for-72) with six homers, five doubles, a triple, and 84 RBIs with the bases loaded in 2004. Brad McCann hit two grand slams and was 3-for-3 with 10 RBIs with the bases full. Lou Santangelo also hit two grand slams, both against Georgia, and was 4-for-8 with two doubles and 14 RBIs. Herman Demmink and Russell Triplett also hit grand slams.

Double Time

Clemson hit 149 doubles in 65 games in 2004, good for 2.29 per game. The 2.29 figure ranked tied for 17th in the nation, while the 149 doubles tied for seventh-most. That mark was enhanced in the last 17 games, as the Tigers hit 54 doubles, or 3.18 per game. Clemson also hit 17 doubles in just four ACC Tournament games, including an ACC Tournament-record eight doubles against N.C. State on May 28. Clemson went 21 straight games with at least one double until the final game of the year at #10 Georgia. No Tiger had more than 20 doubles, but 10 Tigers hit at least nine doubles.

The Clemson record for doubles in a season is 189, set in 1991. The 149 doubles and 2.29 per game in 2004 both rank fifth-most in a season in school history.

Good Night

Clemson was 22-6 in 28 night games in 2004, including a 14-2 record at home. The Tigers hit .312 at night, compared to their opponents hitting just .254 at night. Clemson's ERA was also 3.77 at night, compared to its opponents' 6.67 ERA. The Tigers were 17-20 in day games.

Santangelo Solid Behind the Plate

Junior catcher Lou Santangelo (Colts Neck, NJ) transferred from Seton Hall prior to 2004 and made an drastic impact. In two seasons as the Seton Hall starter behind the plate, he totaled just three home runs. He had a team-high 18 homers and 62 RBIs in 64 games in 2004. He was the Tiger cleanup hitter in all 64 games that he started.

Santangelo was also solid behind the plate. He dramatically improved Clemson's run defense, as he threw out 20 base stealers, and was a big factor in the development of the Tigers' pitching staff. He was drafted in the fourth round by the Houston Astros.

Santangelo was one of only two Tigers to drive in at least six runs in a single game in 2004. In fact, he drove in six runs on two different occasions, including in a 15-4 win at College of Charleston on March 5 and against Georgia on March 31. In one of his biggest moment as a Tiger, he hit an opposite-field home run in the 10th inning to defeat #10 North Carolina on April 18. Then in potentially his last at-bat as a Tiger, he hit a towering grand slam at #10 Georgia in the Athens Regional to give the Tigers a 10-9 win.

Santangelo batted .300 overall in 2004 and started 64 of the team's 65 games behind the plate.

Demmink Received Bob Bradley Award

Herman Demmink received the Bob Bradley Award on April 14, which goes to the Tigers' MVP of the annual four-game series with South Carolina. In three games against the Gamecocks, he was 7-for-15 (.467) with a triple, two homers, and four RBIs. He also did not commit an error in 13 chances. The award is named in honor of the late Bob Bradley, who passed away in 2000. He served Clemson athletics in the sports information department from the 1950s until his passing.

Demmink Named Strength All-American

Second baseman Herman Demmink (Midlothian, VA) was named a 2004 NSCA Strength & Conditioning All-American in early April. Demmink, Clemson's two-time winner of the Omaha Challenge, was one of the Tigers' leadoff batters in 2004. In 50 games, the 5'-11", 185-pound sophomore hit .270 with four homers and 29 RBIs.

The program recognizes collegiate athletes whose athletic accomplishments, in the opinion of their strength coach, reflect their dedication to strength training and conditioning. The athletes are also recognized for their academic and personal accomplishments, as well as their integrity as student-athletes.

Demmink's personal bests in the weight room include a 275-pound bench press, 450-pound squat, 34" vertical jump, and 295-pound power clean.

"Herman has a work ethic that cannot be matched," said former Tiger Baseball Strength Coach Tom Melton. "As a true freshman, he broke the school records for the 225-pound (squat) rep. test (40) and pull-test (48). He was awarded the Dedication Lifter Award, which is voted on by his teammates. For the second year in a row, Herman won the Omaha Challenge, which is a four-day event comprised of resistance, agility, and conditioning tests to measure muscular endurance, mental toughness, and team unity.

"Herman is not just a good performer in the weight room, he also takes care of business in the classroom and on the baseball field as well. The pre-business major has over a 3.3 GPA."

Freshmen Led Team in ACC Play

Freshman first baseman Andy D'Alessio (Naples, FL) and freshman outfielder Tyler Colvin (North Augusta, SC) came on strong in the latter stages of 2004 and were the top two Tiger hitters in ACC regular-season games. D'Alessio batted .376 (47-for-125) in his last 37 starts to raise his season average to .333, third-best on the team. He also led the team in ACC regular-season games with a .371 batting average. D'Alessio also showed remarkable patience at the plate, walking 35 times in 180 at-bats, as his on-base percentage was .440. The .440 mark was also fifth-best in the ACC. He hit safely in 24 of his last 27 starts and had a 13-game hitting streak in May. He also hit .536 against lefties as well.

Colvin hit .289 overall thanks to two four-hit games in May. He also hit .345 in ACC regular-season play, good for second on the club. He tied a school record with three doubles and went 4-for-5 against #24 Florida State on May 3. Then at #15 Georgia Tech on May 15, he went 4-for-4 with a double and his first career homer. Colvin started 31 games in all, including 28 games in the outfield and three at first base.

McCann Led Team With .379 Batting Average

In 63 games in 2004, Brad McCann had 96 hits and led the team with a .379 batting average along with 16 homers and 65 RBIs. He also had a team-best 64 runs scored and team-best 20 doubles.

The 2003 and 2004 Second-Team All-ACC pick had eight RBIs in three games against #7 Auburn from March 12-14. Then against Georgia in two games in late March, he was 7-for-8 with a homer and five RBIs. In seven career games against the team (Georgia) he signed with out of high school, he was 15-for-28 (.536).

McCann, whose brother is a rising star in the Braves' organization, batted in the #3 spot in the lineup all season. McCann has a career batting average of .363 (183-for-504) in two seasons as well, 10th in Clemson history, but fourth among players with at least 400 at-bats.

McCann Showed Consistency at the Plate

Junior third-baseman Brad McCann ended the 2003 season on a 20-game hitting streak. The streak carried over to the 2004 season, where he extended it by two games before it came to an end at East Carolina on February 28. During his 22-game hitting streak, the Duluth, GA native hit .410 (41-for-100) with 21 RBIs. Even though the streak ended, he led the team with a .379 average and showed remarkable consistency. He hit safely in all but nine games (in which he has had an official at-bat) in 2004, meaning he has hit safely in 73 of his last 82 games.

McCann's 22-game hitting streak tied for the fifth-longest in Clemson history. The Tiger and ACC record-long hitting streak is 41, set by Rusty Adkins from April 10, 1965 to May 17, 1966. Adkins' streak also started in one season and ended in the next.

McCann Went 6-for-6, Named National POTW

Brad McCann went 6-for-6 with a double, two homers, four runs scored, and six RBIs against a #27 ranked (Collegiate Baseball) College of Charleston club on May 12 at Doug Kingsmore Stadium. The six hits tied a Clemson single-game record, as he became the eighth Tiger in history and first since 1992 (Chad Phillips vs. Maryland) to accomplish the feat. One of his two home runs was a grand slam. No Tiger had even totaled five hits in a game in 2004 before the game against the Cougars.

Against Furman the night before, he went 2-for-4 with three runs scored, two RBIs, and two walks. Therefore in just over two games that week, he was 8-for-10 with eight runs scored, a double, two homers, eight RBIs, two walks, and a stolen base. He also reached base in 11 of his 13 plate appearances and was named one of five National Players-of-the-Week by Collegiate Baseball.

McCann Up For Golden Spikes, Dick Howser

Junior third baseman Brad McCann was one of 30 college baseball players selected to the Golden Spikes Award Watch List, released April 7 by USA Baseball. Then on May 13, McCann was named one of 30 semifinalists for the 2004 Dick Howser Trophy, also given to the top collegiate baseball player. He was also named a third-team All-American by Baseball America in June, the only Tiger tabbed with All-America honors in 2004.

McCann led the Tigers with a .379 batting average, 16 homers, 20 doubles, and 65 RBIs in 63 games. Former Tiger shortstop Khalil Greene won both of the aforementioned awards in 2002.

Ingram Went Deep in First At-Bat

Red-shirt freshman John Ingram stepped onto a college baseball field for the first time against Georgia Southern on February 29 (at Greenville, NC) and promptly did what few can say they did. He belted a long three-run home run, well over 400 feet, over the centerfield fence in his first career plate appearance. The homer came on an 0-1 pitch, as he took the first pitch for a strike. Therefore, he hit the homer in his first career swing. Then in his third career at-bat, he went deep again. This time, it was against #7 Auburn on March 13. Then he did it again in his ninth career at-bat against Coastal Carolina on March 16.

Ingram was 26-for-96 (.271) with four homers, six doubles, and 21 RBIs in 42 games (26 starts). He had a 13-game hitting streak and was also a valuable player off the bench. He was 5-for-13 (.385) with two doubles, two homers, three walks, and 10 RBIs as a pinch-hitter.

Triplett Had .312 Career Batting Average

Fifth-year graduate shortstop and tri-captain Russell Triplett (West Columbia, SC) was a steady presence in the Tiger lineup for years. The 2004 season was no different. A career .312 hitter and two-time All-ACC selection, he was an active part of four NCAA Tournament teams while at Clemson. In 2004, he is hit .304 with 17 doubles, four homers, and 41 RBIs.

Triplett hit a walkoff single in the bottom of the ninth inning to give Clemson a 2-1 win over N.C. State on April 23, 2004. He did it again in the ACC Tournament, this time to beat North Carolina on May 26 when he laced a single in the ninth inning to plate Kris Harvey. It was his third walkoff hit, as he had won against Winthrop in 2003. It was also his fourth final-inning, game-winning hit, as he hit a two-run single in the ninth inning at College of Charleston in 2003.

Sipp Sported Dual Roles

Junior Tony Sipp (Moss Point, MS), Clemson's only lefthander out of the bullpen for most of 2004, was an asset to the Tigers in more ways than one. He started 51 games in the outfield and added speed on the basepaths. He led the team and was third in the ACC in stolen bases (20) and slowly raised his batting average after struggling at the plate early in 2004. He ended the season with a .280 batting average, 48 runs scored, 13 doubles, four triples, a homer, 23 RBIs, and 26 walks against only 25 strikeouts.

* - ACC regular-season game; ^ - Keith LeClair Invitational at Greenville, NC; $ - ACC Tournament at Salem, VA; - NCAA Regional at Athens, GA; H - 1...solo, 2...2-run, 3...3-run, 4...grand slam; Note: Bold denotes a Clemson home game.

One of his best games was against Furman on May 11. He reached base five times and lined out to the shortstop in his other at-bat. He also scored three runs, had two RBIs, and stole two bases. But his biggest worth proved to be on the mound. He pitched the final 3.1 innings, allowing just two hits and no runs while striking out five to earn the victory.

On the mound in 2004, he was 2-2 with a 4.69 ERA. He also had two saves and 59 strikeouts in 48.0 innings pitched. After starting his first three games, he appeared out of the bullpen 19 times. As a reliever, he was 2-1 with a 3.44 ERA and 45 strikeouts against only eight walks.

Sipp Special in the Postseason

Tony Sipp had one of the best all-around ACC Tournaments of any Tiger in recent history from May 26-28, 2004. In four games in Salem, VA, he was 8-for-17 (.471) with six runs scored, four double, a triple, two RBIs, five walks, and a .591 on-base percentage as the leadoff batter. In the middle two games, he reached base in 10 of his 12 plate appearances. He tied two Clemson ACC Tournament records with four total doubles and four walks in a single game (against #5 Georgia Tech on May 27). Sipp also made two relief appearances on the mound. In 3.2 innings pitched, he allowed one earned run and one walk while striking out six.

He also was outstanding in the Athens Regional, where he hit .364 with three doubles, a triple, and six RBIs. He also pitched 7.1 innings, allowing seven hits and no walks while striking out 10 to earn All-Regional honors.

Therefore in nine postseason games, Sipp was 16-for-39 (.410) with 12 runs scored, seven doubles, two triples, eight RBIs, and seven walks at the plate. On the mound, he pitched 11.0 innings in four relief appearances. He allowed just one walk while striking out 16, including three after entering the Georgia game in the Athens Regional on June 6 (second game of the doubleheader) with the bases loaded and no outs to preserve the Tigers' lead.

Harvey Produced on Mound and at Plate

Sophomore righthander Kris Harvey (Catawba, NC) was hampered most of 2003 with shoulder problems, but regained the form in 2004 that made him a fifth-round draft pick out of high school. The son of former Major League pitcher Bryan Harvey made a team-tying-high 14 starts on the mound and had a 6-0 record. He was 4-1 in 2003 as a freshman, therefore he is 10-1 in his two-year career as a Tiger.

Harvey, a First-Team All-ACC player, was also a producer at the plate in 2004. In 54 games in the field, he quietly hit .335 with 16 doubles, eight homers, and 41 RBIs. Against Wake Forest from March 26-28, he shined, going 7-for-13 (.538) with three doubles, a homer, and seven RBIs in just three games. Then the next weekend against Maryland, he was 6-for-14 with two doubles, two homers, and six RBIs, as he earned conference player-of-the-week honors.

He was also a thorn in the side of Georgia in two games from March 30-31. He pitched 7.0 innings, allowing just two runs while striking out seven to earn the win at Athens. Then the next day, he went 3-for-4 with three runs scored and three RBIs as the starting right fielder.

His biggest home run of the year came against Charleston Southern on May 5. With the Tigers trailing 2-0 in the ninth inning, he hit the first pitch he saw over the fence for a two-run home to tie the score. The homer got him off the hook, as he was slated to be the losing pitcher had the Tigers not come back. Clemson went on to win 3-2.

Lumsden Struck Down the Competition

Junior lefthander Tyler Lumsden (Roanoke, VA) had a 3.98 ERA and 5-4 record in 14 starts and one relief appearance in 2004. In a team-high 81.1 innings pitched, the first-round draft pick struck out 88, good for a 9.74 strikeouts per nine innings pitched mark.

Starting a Good Move for Rohrbaugh

Sophomore lefthander Robert Rohrbaugh (Littlestown, PA) made his first start of 2004 and second career start at Texas Tech on March 21. After that date, he was a weekend starter for the Tigers, starting against all eight league opponents in the regular season. He only allowed 16 earned runs in 49.2 innings pitched and did not allow more than three earned runs in any of the eight ACC starts. In fact, he only allowed more than two earned runs in one of the ACC starts, that being three earned runs against #24 Florida State. He was also 3-4 and had a 2.90 ERA in ACC play.

Overall in 2004, he made eight relief appearances and 12 starts. He was 4-5 with a 3.99 ERA. In 76.2 innings pitched, he yielded just 21 walks and a .269 opponents' batting average. In 106.1 innings pitched over two seasons, he has a 3.72 ERA.

Jackson Had Carolina on His Mind

Righthander and tri-captain Steven Jackson returned for his senior year after being selected in the 32nd round by the Cleveland Indians in 2003. One of his goals was to finally pitch against South Carolina, a team he never faced in three previous years. He earned his chance when Clemson traveled to Columbia on April 14 to face the #6 Gamecocks. In his first start of 2004, Jackson pitched 6.1 innings, allowing three runs to earn the win, also his first of the season. Later in the week, he came out of the bullpen at #10 North Carolina. He pitched 1.2 scoreless and hitless innings in Clemson's 4-2 win.

Then on April 21, the 10th-round pick of the Diamondbacks in 2004 came in the game against Western Carolina in the ninth inning with runners on first and second with no outs and induced a double play on his first pitch. He retired the next batter to get out of the inning. Clemson went on to score three runs in the bottom of the ninth to win the game. Therefore, he picked up wins against three Carolina teams, including two top-10 Carolina teams on the road, in the span of eight days. He would have earned another win against N.C. State, another Carolina team, if the Tigers had not blown a 3-1 lead late in the game on April 24.

In 2004, Jackson was 4-3 with a 3.56 ERA in three starts and 19 relief outings. He also held opponents to a .253 batting average in 43.0 innings pitched. He had a 19-8 career record in 67 appearances (34 starts) over four seasons.

Cribb Had Week to Remember

In two relief appearances in one week in early May, sophomore righthander Josh Cribb (Lake View, SC) pitched near flawless ball. In 8.0 innings pitched, he did not allow a hit nor run and struck out 11 batters. He also allowed just three walks, one of which was intentional. The first outing was against Charleston Southern on May 5. In that game, he earned the win by pitching 3.1 innings and striking out four. The next game, this time on May 9 against #24 Central Florida, he pitched 4.2 innings with seven strikeouts. Although he did not win conference honors for that week's performance, it will still go down as one of the best back-to-back relief performances by a Tiger in history.

Overall in 2004, Cribb was 5-1 with a 3.71 ERA and two saves in 19 relief appearances and one start (60.2 total innings pitched). The middle reliever and spot starter also held opponents to a .222 batting average and 15 walks against 58 strikeouts thanks to his assortment of sharp-breaking pitches.

Cribb earned Athens Regional All-Tournament team honors thanks to a win and save he earned in two relief appearances. He allowed just seven hits and two walks while striking out 10 in 10.0 innings pitched. In four relief appearances in the postseason, he allowed just 12 hits and three walks while striking out 17 in 15.1 innings pitched.

Hogan Shut the Door

Fifth-year graduate righthander and tri-captain Patrick Hogan (Columbia, SC) became the Tigers' stopper out of the bullpen in 2004. In a team-high 24 relief appearances, Hogan had 10 saves in 44.2 innings pitched. The 10 saves rank tied for third-most in a season in Tiger history and were tied for 10th-most in the nation in 2004. He has also struck out 60 against only 19 walks (four of which were intentional). In four years, he had 18 career saves, third-most in Clemson history.

Berken Battled

The one word Head Coach Jack Leggett likes to use when talking about sophomore righthander Jason Berken (De Pere, WI) is "battler." Clemson's Friday starter for the first half of this year did just that, as he was 5-1 with a 2.53 ERA in 10 starts. He had a streak for most of the year of not allowing an earned run for 30 innings, one of the longest streaks in Tiger history.

On the season, he allowed just 30 hits in 46.1 innings pitched while striking out 40. Opponents hit only .181 overall. His season ended prematurely, just as the conference season heated up. Berken developed soreness in his arm.

Record Crowd, Season Attendance

A record crowd of 6,480 fans was on hand to watch #5 South Carolina defeat #18 Clemson at Doug Kingsmore Stadium on March 7, 2004. The mark broke the previous Tiger record of 6,392, set in the Clemson Super Regional against Mississippi State in 2000.

Clemson also set the school single-season record for average attendance in 2004. In 32 home games, Clemson averaged 3,649 fans per game, ahead of the Tiger single-season record of 3,592 set in 2002. A season-ticket base of over 1,800 is one reason for Clemson's outstanding fan support.

Three Tigers Earned Degrees on May 7

Fifth-year seniors Patrick Hogan, Ryan Hub, and Russell Triplett received their undergraduate diplomas in commencement ceremonies May 7 at Littlejohn Coliseum. The three players were a part of four NCAA Tourney teams and two College World Series teams. Hogan, a righthanded pitcher from Columbia, SC, received his degree in PRTM. He also spent the spring semester as an intern in the SID office. Hub, an outfielder from Sumter, SC, received his degree in political science and plans to join the Marines in the fall of 2004. Triplett, the Tigers' starting shortstop from West Columbia, SC, received his degree in elementary education.

Tigers Record Highest Semester GPA

As a team, Clemson recorded a 2.87 GPA during the Fall, 2003 semester. The 2.87 GPA is the highest ever for a semester by the baseball team. The Tigers also had 18 players make the school's Academic Honor Roll, the second-best figure ever.

Players who made the honor roll include Jason Berken, Stephen Clyne, Josh Cribb, Andy D'Alessio, Herman Demmink, Aaron Eubanks, Jesse Ferguson, Kris Harvey, Doug Hogan, Ryan Hub, John Ingram, Collin Mahoney, Brad McCann, Gene Pierce, Robert Rohrbaugh, Travis Storrer, Russell Triplett, P.J. Zocchi.

Twelve Tigers made the ACC Academic Honor Roll for the 2003-04 academic year. Included in the list was Ryan Hub, who became the fifth Tiger in history to receive that honor four times.

Five Former Tigers on Opening Day Rosters

Five former Clemson baseball players earned roster spots on Major League teams for opening day of 2004. All five played with their same Major League team last year. The list includes Billy McMillon (Oakland Athletics), Billy Koch (Chicago White Sox), Khalil Greene (San Diego Padres), Kris Benson (Pittsburgh Pirates), and Matthew LeCroy (Minnesota Twins). All five players were All-Americans at Clemson and played at least once in the College World Series.

McMillon is in his sixth season in the Majors. He has played in 217 career games and has a lifetime batting average of .259 with 13 homers. Last year, he batted .268 for the Athletics, including a .385 average as a pinch hitter. He led the American League in pinch hits, pinch-hit batting average, and pinch-hit doubles during the 2003 season. McMillon played for the Tigers between 1991-93.

LeCroy had a strong season for the Twins last year, as he had a career-best 17 home runs and hit .287 overall in 107 games. He also had 64 RBIs and a .490 slugging percentage for a Twin team that made the playoffs. The 2004 season is his fifth year in the Major Leagues. He has 32 lifetime home runs and 120 RBIs. LeCroy played for the Tigers between 1995-97.

Greene is the starting shortstop for the San Diego Padres this year. He played in 20 games in the month of September last year and batted .215 in 65 at-bats. He had two home runs and six RBIs. Peter Gammons of ESPN has made Greene his pre-season pick for National League Rookie-of-the-Year. He already received National League Rookie-of-the-Month honors for April, 2004. Greene played for Clemson from 1999-02 and was the unanimous NCAA National Player-of-the-Year in 2002.

Benson is in his fifth year with the Pittsburgh Pirate organization. The #1 overall selection of the 1996 Major League Draft had an injury-plagued 2003 season when he had a 5-9 final record after a 2-0 start. He has a career record of 35-41 with a 4.27 ERA. He has 470 career strikeouts in 649.2 career innings pitched. Benson played for Clemson between 1994-96 and was the consensus NCAA National Player-of-the-Year in 1996.

Koch, the #4 overall pick of the 1996 Major League Draft, is in his sixth season in the Major Leagues, including his second with the Chicago White Sox. Koch became the first pitcher in Major League history to record at least 30 saves in each of his first four years. That included 44 saves in his rookie year. Last year, he had a 5-5 record with 11 saves. He has 155 career saves and a 27-22 overall record. Koch played for Clemson from 1994-96.
